This is the story of how I tried to cross Iceland during the Winter of 2011 to raise awareness of carers and their struggles. The crossing, fraught with danger, presented all the challenges that carers have to endure in their daily battle to look after another human being.

Faced with storms, self reliance and difficult circumstances, I had to find the strength to carry on. This is my short story of an expedition to bring the challenges faced by carers through a solo winter crossing of Iceland.
